A new state law will be in effect starting July 1, which mandates that nearly all public places and places of employment in Indiana—including facilities on university campuses, restaurants, and other workplaces—be smoke free. This change comes as the result of Indiana’s first statewide smoke-free-air law, House Enrolled Act 1149 (www.in.gov/legislative/bills/2012/HE/HE1149.1.html).

While the new law makes smoking in IU facilities or within eight feet of an entrance a citable offense, tobacco use is still allowed on city owned streets (shown in GREEN).
